BLAST

Billboard

EXPERIENCE THE BUZZ

July 7, 2007 Circulation: 20,035

Billboard

ADVERTISEMENT

EXPERIENCE THE BUZZ

ALEJANDR
FERNÁNDE

ice which artists and music they prefer. Finally, they needed to e-mail their friends to that mass.

For instance, the Facebook

THINKING OUTSIDE THE JUKEBOX

It's an arcade game. It's a jukebox. And it fits on a table or a bar.

DreamAuthentics' new Katana personal arcade cabinet ships with more than 200 licensed classic arcade games, but its built-in PC is compatible with more modern games and can be hooked up to an Xbox 360 or PlayStation. It also plays DVDs, accesses the Internet and can display cable programming on its 17-inch screen.

And don't forget music. While it does not ship with any tracks, users can load their own MP3s into the device for either standalone play or videogame soundtracks. Customers can customize the size of the Katana's hard drive, choose a joystick or trackball controller, and add classic jukebox controls.

Prices vary, but start at $2,500. —Antony Bruno

And the
has taken
some labe
their own book ap
Warne
mo
Str
"I
mar
developing F
profiles inst
communicate
100 artists, i
Hill, 50 Cent a
son, are partici
vite only" tri
develops custo
include strear
tour dates.

iLike also i
Bon Jovi to tes
tion service. T
sending target
users living n